REQUIREMENT RR/HTA/E/R123/56: Describe major changes since World War II in the Telephone and Radio Plant "Krasnaya Zarya", Leningrad, USSR.

REMARKS:

The Leningrad Telephone and Radio Plant "Krasnaya Zarya", located in north-central Leningrad, manufactures radio equipment and is a major producer of automatic telephone exchanges.

A study of [REDACTED] photography shows that the only apparent changes in this plant since the previous photo coverage in [REDACTED] are the following new buildings which are annotated on the accompanying photograph of the plant:

1. A four or five story building, measuring 200'x 65', plus a 65'x 60' wing, has been constructed near the river in an area formerly occupied by several shop-type buildings.
2. A single-story storage-type building, 185'x 40', has been constructed near the northern boundary of the plant area.
